25X1A 6. (Confidential - JMM) Jay Sourwine, Chief Counsel, Senate 25X1A Internal Security Subcommittee, called "simply to let us know" that there was a movement on foot to "rehabilitate" [REDACTED] perhaps so that he could play a part in negotiations with Hanoi. As a result, Sourwine predicted that efforts might be made to surface the seven volumes of testimony developed by the Internal Security Subcommittee on the [REDACTED] case some years ago. Sourwine said that surfacing the record at this time would help no one, and would be particularly unfortunate from his standpoint since it would create a serious split in the present Subcommittee. He said he was telling us all this because he had provided us with the only other copy of the record.
